Plant Calendula Now for Colorful Winter Gardens

For months of stimulating color when the entire garden is at its lowest ebb, plant calendula, stock, snapdragon, pansy, viola, and primula malacoides which thrive on the short cool days ahead.

Such is the suggestion of the Bedding Plant Advisory Board, 2091 Torrance Blvd.

The calendula, or "Pot. Mari gold" needs re-introduction into many gardens as there are new varieties that are markedly superior to strains available just a few short years ago, the board says. Present-day calendula produce giant, semi-double daisy flowered blooms in the old-fashioned colors of red, orange, yellow, and white, as well as many new shades, such as apricot, salmon, and cream.

Each flower head is born on a strong stem of excellent cutting length, thus giving calendula a dual role of garden beauty and indoor decorations. Calendulas should be planted one foot apart in loose soil in which has been worked a good supply of steer manure. The gardener should avoid watering in the evening, but give it long winter show.
